Recognize the deep, lasting impact of NCDs on family health and wellbeing.

Innovate and promote proven, evidence-based developments, to address all NCDs including childhood cancer, palliative care and pain relief, and vaccines capable of preventing cancer.

Recognize young leaders as essential partners for NCDs prevention and control and ensure their participation in global NCD advocacy and policy campaigns, consultations, and coalitions.

Acknowledge positive change starts with care for families and communities, then extends to the health centers.

Commit to the life course approach to NCDs, and organize life-long primary care for NCDs through Universal Health Coverage (UHC).

Actively address family health literacy, to improve understanding about NCDs prevention and control, with consideration of the cultural and social context.

Empower all, including young people affected by NCDs, to share their health stories and lived experiences, to strengthen advocacy and to guide stakeholders who seek to make lasting improvements in family health and wellbeing.
